ARCHST 4430 is an Online 3 Cr Humanities Gen Ed Course

Study Historic Preservation; historic roots of architecture and interiors; regulations and design guidelines governing intervention; assessing significance of historic properties.

Jesse Hall, anchor of the “red campus”, has been remodeled and upgraded throughout the years. There were several questions which were addressed: What important events took place here? Were there historical figures attached to this building? And most importantly: Why was this building important to preserve?

Prerequisite or co-requisite: History, Government, Art History or consent of instructor.

Offered by the Department of Architectural Studies.
