

ArchSt1600W Fundamentals of Environmental Design

Writing Intensive, Humanities General Education, (3 credits)

Creativity is an essential soft skill most employers seek in graduates, and design involves creativity under real-world constraints. Students of all majors are welcome to take this course, an engaging survey of design fundamentals that have stood the test of time and remain relevant today. A carefully chosen sequence of writing assignments complements lectures and readings in this course. They will help you understand and articulate socio-cultural influences, ideas, and strategies underlying great design.
